

BATTLE OF FEMALES OVER UK'S ETHER

A hot battle is raging in Britain for the big Saturday night television audience, estimated in the region of 30,000-500,000 viewers, as the competing

RBC and its commercial opponent enter the list with two powerful contestants, Bright and Barker, each with a left in the commercial ring, and redhead

Millie Martin, for the no-advertising BBC. Contestants' statistics are 36-23-36, and 36-23-36 respectively. Which will draw the most viewers, may point the way to victory or defeat for one of the two competing channels. (AP Wire Photo)

Slowdown Of U.S. Help Sparks Saigon Rumors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—A sharp slowdown in American economic aid here stirred speculation today about a possible pressure move by the U.S. state department.

American economic assistance to President Ngo Dinh Diem's already shaky government has come to a virtual standstill. This has given rise to speculation that the state department may be trying to force the Diem regime to carry out reforms.

High-ranking U.S. officials said they had no word from Washington on why the aid has been cut. But there were widespread reports here the move was made in an effort to get President Diem to clean up his administration.

As long ago as August, informed sources said, authorization was refused for the import of goods purchased with American funds.

The U.S. import program finances imports here amounting to $110,000,000 a year.

EXPLAINS CUT

U.S. officials said it was an oversimplification to say economic assistance had been cut off.

The official explanation was that the Vietnamese have used up their allotment of economic aid funds plus their share of the reserve fund known as the "pipeline". The latter fills the gap between congressional aid appropriations.

Up to now half the Diem government's budget has been financed by the United States. Diem's regime spends half its budget in the war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Diem told the National Assembly Monday he expected a deficit of about $200,000,000 for next year.

PROBLEM SETTLED

He also said the country's Buddhist problem was settled and the Communist guerrillas faced inevitable defeat.

Diem announced that 107 Buddhist monks and followers arrested in the government crackdown last August were released Monday.

They had been detained nearly seven weeks, since troops and police stormed pagodas Aug. 21 and arrested Buddhist leaders and followers through the country.

The announcement did not say how many Buddhists were still held. More than 2,000 were reported arrested in August.

The released monks signed a resolution addressed to Diem expressing their gratitude for his leniency, an announcement said.

BARE FACTS JUST TOO MUCH

READING, England (AP)—Optician Thomas Dear rubbed his eyes when he saw the bare-breasted blonde on the poster advertising a charity ball.

"The posters who usually do our posters couldn't handle the job this year," Dear explained. "So one of our members volunteered to do the work. I'm afraid he let his imagination run away with him."

The posters were to advertise the annual ball of an organization called the Local Yoke. Over the blonde were the words "See you there."

Dear, an official of the Local Yoke, sketched in hundreds of black bars on the poster blonde.

Appeal Fails; Term Increased

CALGARY (CP)—A 28-year-old Edmonton man had his sentence increased to four from two years when he appeared before the Alberta Supreme Court appeal division. Kenneth Popow was appealing his conviction in April on a charge of conspiring to utter forged documents, laid after a series of forged cheques were cashed in central and southern Alberta communities. The appeal judges rejected Popow's arguments and increased his sentence.

NO VOTE

MOOSE JAW (CP)—City council has decided to shelve a proposed Sunday sports plebiscite. Aldermen Monday rejected a city commissioner's recommendation that such a plebiscite be held during the Nov. 6 civic elections. Alderman D. C. Nell said the plebiscite would not give council any legal power to institute Sunday sports.

Sweeping B.C. Revision Of Educational Policy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced a sweeping revision Tuesday night in British Columbia's educational policy.

A new program offering secondary school students a choice of six separate courses leading to graduation will go into effect for students entering grade 11 in September, 1965.

Mr. Peterson unveiled the new program, which closely follows recommendations made by the Chast Report on higher education, in an address at the 1963 annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees Association here.

He said the present university entrance program will remain intact, but the existing general course will be replaced by five new study fields.

The new programs will be a vocational training course, vocational industrial course, vocational service course, an agricultural course and a fine arts course.

Students taking the courses will be required to take certain general subjects—such as English and social studies—and to take certain related subjects—such as a general business course in the commerce program.

However, each student will be permitted to select a specialty—such as secretarial work in the general commerce course.

"The major objective of our new secondary schools will be to provide equally challenging studies for the large proportion of our young people who are not and cannot be university bound," Mr. Peterson said.

"Graduation will depend not on a mere totalling of credits but upon completion of the requirements of the program chosen."

"Each program will have a clearly definable purpose, preparation for entrance to the technical institute, preparation for entrance to and employment in a group of related occupations or preparation for further training at a regional vocational school."

Mr. Peterson said B.C. is on the threshold of a social revolution that is more far-reaching than anything in its history.

"Education is rapidly becoming a life process rather than something confined to a hypothetical school age, and our new educational program takes into account the inter-relationship between a person's work and his life."

"The quality of achievement can be excellent and certainly not lower."

He said that in order to implement the new program the provincial government will build four more regional vocational schools in the Peace River and Prince Rupert areas and in Kamloops and Victoria.

He said a new Institute of Technology, which opens in suburban Burnaby in September, 1964, will offer 11 courses—12 in engineering technologies, three in catering and commerce and two in medical technology.

He also said the provincial government realized the need for a higher percentage of graduate students and it would work with the universities in an attempt to convince more people to continue after graduation into the post-graduate field.

INJURED MAN MOVED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Warner Williams, about 34, severely burned in a gasoline mishap at Smithers Sept. 26, has been transferred to St. Paul's Hospital here after a relapse in his condition. Williams was burning when gasoline he threw on the fire flashed back and burned him. He was reported in fair condition.

TO RUN AGAIN

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mayor Jack Chilton of North Kamloops says he will seek re-election in the December civic election. He said he would like to have another two years in office to see completion of projects already begun.

PROJECT PROPOSED

VANCOUVER (CP)—North Vancouver council has heard a proposal that a $1,400,000 project embracing a swimming pool, hockey and skating rink, auditorium and curling rink be constructed as its 1967 Canadian Centennial contribution. The proposal was made by four councillors and Douglas H. Miller, architectural adviser.

TAKEN TO CLEANERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Clothing thieves took a downtown dry cleaning establishment to the cleaners Tuesday. They stole more than $2,000 worth of garments left by customers for cleaning and $20 from the cash register at the Swank Tailors and Cleaners plant.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Mount Tod has been chosen by the Canadian Olympic ski team as a practice centre this December. The Western Canada Ski Alliance will hold a clinic on Tod in December and the Canadian senior alpine championships will be held here in March.

Fidel Likened To Washington

TORONTO (CP)—Fidel Castro is running Cuba now just the way George Washington ran the United States after the American Revolution, Cedric Cox, former New Democratic Party member of the British Columbia legislature, told the Committee on Cuban Affairs at the University of Toronto Monday.

"During the six years following the American revolution, there were no elections," Mr. Cox said, replying to a question about Premier Castro's failure to hold free elections.

Mr. Cox, now on a tour of Canadian and American universities, was publicly rebuked by NDP Leader Robert Strachan of B.C. after his visit to Cuba last January. He lost his seat in the legislature by 200 votes in the recent B.C. election.

Research Urged In Child Safety

Dr. David A. Clarke today issued a plea for further research into child safety.

Dr. Clarke, who is the director of the South Otago Health Unit, headed a three-year study on accidents involving pedestrians under 15 years of age.

The results of the survey, which was conducted in 1960 and 1961, are now appearing in the current edition of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

COMMON CAUSE
Dr. Clarke said the common cause of accidents was that a child ran between parked cars or was crossing an intersection at which one car had stopped and was hit by a second overtaking car. This shows a need for further education of drivers, he said.

As the highest rate of accidents is among the three to five year olds, said Dr. Clarke.

Parental teaching and example are the most important means of getting this point across.

More accidents happened to children who attended public schools, than those who attended private schools where parents were more concerned.

BECOMES CARELESS
When a safety patrol is in action the child does not look before crossing the street. This contributes to his carelessness where there is no patrol the child is more careful.

Dr. Clarke said we still spend thousands of dollars on research into the cause and cure of diseases such as polio, while little is done about the deaths caused each year by accidents.

For this reason I am most anxious to see a continuation into the research of these problems, he said.

Sportsman Advocates Unity Effort

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the B.C. Lions football club, Tuesday told the Kelowna Rotary Club we need greater understanding of people who live outside our own community.

Mr. Capozzi, who won one of the early Rotary Foundation scholarships and used it to spend a year in Italy, told of his experiences in that country.

"That opportunity to live in a new country, to get to know many people whose language and ideas are not the same as ours certainly gave me food for thought," he said.

OBTAIN KNOWLEDGE
"I also spent five years in Montreal," he said.

"Western Canadians should be making an effort to learn about the French-Canadians, to find out how they think."

"It is a fact that there are a number of young people in Montreal and in Quebec province who do want to separate from the rest of Canada."

Without any doubt, we in Canada would be a much less powerful force for good if our country was divided.

"There is no one in the west making any effort to effect this influence," he said.

LEARN FRENCH
"I suggest we should be sending some of our people to live with the French-speaking people, just as we are now doing with the peoples of South America."

"During the war people were taught to speak a new language in three months. I know, for I didn't speak English. It can be done, and I suggest it is necessary in this day of an ever-shrinking world."

"You have heard parents say 'that would interrupt my child's education.' That is not the right approach, for this type of education is the proper type, learning to live with your neighbors."

"It is a valuable experience to go to a new country and to find that you are the one that is out of step."

FIRST RIDICULED
"When you first get there, you are laughed at. And that is the attitude people resent when they come to Canada, they are not given the status of full citizenship because of their little differences."

"Rotary and other like groups have a great opportunity to unify Canada, by promoting this attitude of learning and co-operation," he said.

Speaking of the B.C. Lions themselves, Mr. Capozzi said they operated on the principle they can't take everything without giving something.

JAYCEES START APPLE PROJECT
Kelowna Jaycees have undertaken their annual apple pack project.

"Object of the project is to raise finances and to encourage the use of fruit as novel Christmas gifts," Jaycee president Pat Moss, said today.

"Last year's project was tremendously successful," said Mr. Moss. "We are getting started earlier this year so purchasers will have sufficient time to get their orders in."

The Jaycees will be contacting various businesses and individuals by letter advising them of the availability of the packs.

Kloyd Lillies, chairman of the project last year said 381 packs were shipped to points in Canada and the U.S.A.

HERB CAPOZZI

"In B.C. we have more than 5000 youngsters learning football and we are sustaining that effort."

SPONSOR CLINICS
"We have brought in a number of orthopedic doctors to give medical clinics as part of this work."

"They have shown us there are more injuries among youngsters playing in the streets than among those playing organized sports."

"The most difficult problem facing Canada today is that of trying to keep children in school, to keep them interested in learning."

"We feel that an organized program of sports can retain the interests of those in the higher grades, and if they can become interested in the overall program long enough to complete their high school they often go on to university," said Mr. Capozzi.

Five Charges Heard Today
Magistrate D. M. White heard five separate charges in police court Wednesday.

Hugh Alexander MacLaren of R.R. 1, Oryana, pleaded guilty to the charge of leaving keys in the ignition of his car. He was fined $10 and costs.

Pleading guilty to a charge of speeding, Richard Franklin Kosolofski of Clifton road, Kelowna, was fined $25 and costs.

A charge of vagrancy was entered against Jacob Joseph Mehler of Peachland. After pleading guilty he was fined $10 and costs.

Edward Bernard Campbell of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. He was fined $25 and costs.

After pleading guilty to a charge of going through a stop sign, Valmar Correia de Melo of Naramata, was fined $15 and costs.

TWO THEFTS
RCMP said there were only two cases of theft reported in the Kelowna area last night.

William Grisham, of 1246 St. Paul, said two fire extinguishers were taken. Theft of a hand saw from 2054 Doryan street was reported by A. Shellenberg.

September Close To Average Weather Statistics Indicate

The September weather picture was similar to the 30 year average and temperature and precipitation figures were mostly in the same range, according to the monthly climatological station report issued by C. P. Erridge.

The high for last month was 86 on three separate days, Sept. 5, 7 and 8. This was one degree higher than the highest September in 1962.

The record September low is 35 and the low this year was on Sept. 27 when the thermometer dropped to 39.

Mean maximum and minimum for the month was 75.6 and 49. The average September temperature over the 30 year period was 58 with 1.02 inches of rain.

There were 10 days last month with precipitation and the most, 4.5 inches fell on Sept. 22. The total rainfall for the month was 4.5 inches.

Civil Defence Group Meet Slated Thursday
Regular meeting of the Kelowna section of the Civil Defence organization is scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday at City Hall.

The meeting will be attended by heads of city departments, to discuss the emergency plans for the entire city and sector, the most 4.5 inches fell on Sept. 22. The total rainfall for the month was 4.5 inches.

Letters have been received from Sharon McKinley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield McKinley, who spent her summer on scholarship at Dartington, Devon, England, and in Portugal.

The Portuguese trip came to her from the American 'Cello' Maurice Elsenberg, through the International 'cello' centre, London, after he had heard her perform.

While at the Festival Sharon performed the Vivaldi E minor 'cello concerto in concert which was televised. She studied with Mr. Elsenberg personally and attended the master classes for 'cello' as well as those for violin and chamber music under Sandor Vegh of the Vegh quartet which played in Penitence two years ago.

Sharon also attended one bull fight and a banquet given by the Minister of Cultural Affairs. Otherwise she spent her two weeks in Portugal "practicing, sleeping, and eating and enjoying the beautiful countryside."

On arrival in Portugal by jet she discovered that no one understood English but was helped by an English couple who knew some Portuguese. There were all nationalities at the festival so language was of no consequence.

The Dartington scholarship was awarded Sharon last year but she was unable to attend because of her trip home. This award was given her by her school, the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in recognition of her outstanding ability. Even though the award is in a different category each year, Sharon was allowed the privilege this year for a shorter time, with the group she plays with regularly. While there they did the Beethoven Opus 130 and the Mozart E major quartet written especially for the 'cello'.

While Sharon's teacher, William Pleeth, was on tour this summer she was given the honor of teaching Miss Julie Donat, daughter of the famous English actor.

Since returning to school in September Sharon has had to make a decision concerning an invitation to audition for a Wigmore Hall recital. She must prepare a contemporary concerto to play with Terrence Kern, Welsh conductor, and decide whether she will accept an invitation by Paul Beard, retired BBC conductor, to audition for the Covent Garden orchestra.

Her Shostakovich Concerto with Barclay Wilson is slated for November 23, the Mozart Clarinet Quintet for Nov. 22, and the Beethoven Clarinet Trio Nov. 29.

Sharon has been awarded two more prizes: the J.B. Donat Memorial prize and her trio group the school Chamber Music award. This puts an end to her prize winning as she has won them all for 'cello'. She has been invited to meet Casuals shortly, at the 'cello' centre.

Will it be any wonder if Sharon decides to remain in England rather than return home to Canada where her artistry is badly needed?

Sadly enough, it is young musicians such as Sharon on which the Canada Council is turning its back because the policy is to aid only those at the graduate level.

We understand that a young student vocalist from the Maritimes is presently at the Guildhall on her second Canada Council grant. Yet Sharon won the Silver Jubilee Commemoration Challenge Cup for 1961-62, open to all categories.

Lawrence Haase Worked in City

By PETER MUNOZ City Editor

Lawrence Herman Haase being held in custody in connection with the deaths of two sisters at Mabel Lake on Monday, was employed by Kelowna firm for the last 15 months, as a lubrication man and mechanic.

His employer, Peter Ratel, described him as a warm-hearted, friendly type who would do anything for anyone.

"He was the quietest, easiest-going guy, polite and a good worker, the best, a little slow, but obliging," Mr. Ratel said.

"All my best customers insisted that he do the work on their cars. As a matter of fact he stayed late on Saturday to finish work on two of my best customers' cars."

ANNIVERSARY
He had arranged with one of the other boys here to switch days off so he could have Monday off as it was his first wedding anniversary and he and his wife Fran were going up to Enderby to visit her parents and do some hunting.

Mr. Ratel said he was very impressed with him.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT
"It's almost unbelievable, no one here can believe it. The boys working here and all the customers who knew him. He loved to hunt and fish and often said he just liked to get out to enjoy the scenery even without a rifle."

He even helped youngsters in Little League baseball," he said.

Mr. Ratel said, "Larry's mother-in-law phoned me and asked that I get the best lawyer available, so Tuesday Norman Mullins and I went up to Salmon Arm, to see him. He had been in the bush all night and when he saw me all he could say was 'Hello, Pete' and then he was all choked up."

SPEEDING FINE
John Boham of Kelowna pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding in Magistrate D. M. White's court Tuesday. He was fined $25 and costs.

Rain Expected Here Thursday
Although partial clearing is expected over many areas today, the weather pattern has become quite unsettled over the province.

The Vancouver weather office said another weather system moving up from the southwest will bring rain to the coast by Thursday morning and spread into the interior Thursday afternoon.

The Okanagan, Lillooet, South Thompson, Kootenay and North Thompson areas will have a few showers this afternoon and again Thursday afternoon. Little change in temperature is expected and light winds will increase to southerly 20 in main valleys tomorrow afternoon.

The low and high temperature in Kelowna yesterday was 43 and 62. For the same day last year the low and high was 42 and 55 with .12" of rain reported.

The low and high expected Thursday at Penitence and Kamloops is 50 and 60, at Lytton 45 and 60; Cranbrook 30 and 60; Crescent Valley 35 and 60 and Revelstoke 35 and 53.

The Cariboo, Prince George, Bulkley Valley areas will experience variable cloudiness today. Cloudy with scattered showers and little change in temperature is the prediction for Thursday.

Winds will remain light today but are expected to be southerly at 15 tomorrow. The low and high Thursday at Quenell and Prince George is expected to be 42 and 55; at Smithers 40 and 55.

Ellison District, Kelowna Take Honors At Horse Show

The Ellison district and Kelowna took honors in the North American International Horse Show held in Vancouver Oct. 3, 4 and 5.

Midnight Dee, a two-year-old filly, Day Diamond was second in the three-year-old fillies. In the three-year-old fillies, Wistanni was second in the four-year-old and over mares.

Highrigger, owner by Tozer of Kelowna, placed third in the show which was held in the Agrodome, in the Pacific National Exhibition grounds in Vancouver.

P. B. Williamson's horses from Kelowna which were shown and ridden by the trainer and his wife, Allan and Lois Rogers, took prizes in a number of events.

ARABIAN
In the Arabian Western Pleasure, HMR Italian's Talab came second while Wistanni was third in the same event. Hal-ah's Talab was first on halter and four year old stallions and of this week.

RETURN
This show was just brought back after a period of ten years and although there are some things which need to be ironed out it was on the whole very well done," she said. Mrs. Bennett said she and her husband are going to attend a horse show in Portland the latter part of this week.

Kelowna Firm Obtains Contract
The public works department of Ottawa recently announced the awarding of a $224,219 contract to W. C. Arnot and Co., Ltd., of Kelowna, to construct approaches to a bridge on the highway to Edmonton highway.

George Dymally, spokesman for the firm said today "upon completion of the contract the firm will go ahead immediately to prepare the roadwork to the approaches of the bridge. The foundation will have to be poured before freeze-up."

A handful of men from Kelowna would likely be employed on the project.

The work is expected to be completed by early spring.

Federal Trusteeship Is The Only Solution

A private arrangement having not been reached, the federal government must now go ahead with its plans to impose a government trusteeship, as suggested in the Norris report, on the Great Lakes five warring maritime unions.

The proposal that a private union trusteeship be imposed has not been accepted and, perhaps, this is just as well. The idea was strongly urged in the United States, not only by the powerful AFL-CIO but also by the U.S. secretary of labor.

In the past there has been too much control of Canadian labor policy by outside interests, and once again it appears that U.S. unionists are meddling in affairs that do not concern them. The wildcat strike in the Great Lakes shipping was extensively defeated throughout the Norris inquiry and in the subsequent report. Labor's image has been lowered as a result of the rigors of the Norris investigation and the subsequent report. The international union and their strongman leader, Ray C. Bakke.

The Norris report concluded that the imposition of a government trusteeship would be the soundest solution to an unpleasant problem. Far more is now involved than the rights and autonomy of organized labor. At issue is the restoration of law and order. The behavior of the United States government has left much to be desired. It is as much in the United States' interest as Canada's to have a trusteeship imposed. Yet the U.S. has refused to act in any positive or decisive manner.

As far as the Great Lakes dispute is concerned, Canada's course is clear. The past few years federal trusteeship has been imposed by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. This union believed that the only way to break up the empire is to appoint trustees with full powers to get rid of Mr. Bakke, police existing labor agreements, amend the union's constitution, and introduce basic democratic methods so that members can control the union.

Only a federally administered trusteeship would have the power to carry out such changes. And, without doubt, these changes are needed and needed now. Otherwise it will not be long before another commission is needed to investigate the problem all over again.

He or She?

Sometimes this issue of biculturalism can get off on ridiculous tangents. It also shows how much matters can affect the sometimes ponderous operation of our parliamentary system.

Take, for example, a routine private bill that had the side effect of changing the sex of Canada. Such a weighty bill was quietly amended recently in the Commons and whipped through the committee on banking and finance. It authenticated Canada Permanent Toronto General Trust Company, changing its name to Canada Permanent Trust Company.

But there was a violent outburst of indignation to the French name—La Fiducie. Mr. Gilles Giguere (Social Credit—Lapoint, Que.) saw the bill and complained that "our beautiful language is spoiled, murdered." He objected, and said it should be La Canada, not La Canada.

The bill went into overtime. The sponsor of the bill brought in company executives from Montreal to appear before the committee. Biculturalism has now been appeased. The French name will be Compagnie de Fiducie, Canada Permanent.

Mr. Howard Griffiths (PC-Brome-Missisquoi) is one member who might get dynamite in his mail-box. He said, in effect, "This is ridiculous."

In the good old days it didn't matter to Quebecers. The poet Drummond wrote in a memorable Habitant verse something about "The hurricane she blow and then she blow some more." Nobody got up in Parliament to question the sex of a hurricane. (Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.)

Short Takes

Coffee drinking is on the decline in the United States. It has dropped 11 per cent from the 1947-49 base average. The decline is the more interesting because it took place when the population was increasing. The statistical picture looks like this: cups per day consumed by coffee drinkers down from 4.17 in 1962 to 4.12 this year; last year 74.7 per cent of the population drank coffee, this year 73.2 per cent; in the home consumption has dropped from 2.57 cups per day to 2.53 cups. On the other hand tea drinking has increased 17 per cent. And if our friends south of the border would learn to make a cup of tea properly, the increase would probably be much greater.

The strangest things do happen. Take for instance the experience of one woman in Kelowna. It happened that one night she was listening to a football game as she drove home. On arrival she turned the engine off and the radio still continued to play. She turned the radio off but the sound continued. She tried turning everything on and off but the radio played blithely on. She finally gave up and went to bed, leaving the radio playing its way through the night. Next morning she called a mechanic who disconnected the radio and even took the car bat-

Ahmed Truly A Businessman With "Radar" For Tourists

TANGIER, Morocco (CP) — His name is Ahmed. He is 25 and handsome. Already he has been married and divorced. He says he is a businessman, and indeed he is. He wears a flashy watch but he keeps it in his pocket. He is a good dancer and a good drinker. He is a good businessman. He is a good man. He is a good man.

His stock in trade is his unfailing ability to spot a tourist at 100 yards. His charming smile and his English—sometimes comical but better than average among Moroccan Arabs. Ahmed slips easily into step as you stroll amid the clutter of sidewalk cafes and shops along Tangier's main street, drinking in the evening view of the Strait of Gibraltar.

He is a man with nothing to do, going nowhere in particular. Although rather short, he is a striking figure in his flowing brown-and-white djellabah, its great hood draped across the shoulders.

SLICK COME-ON

He chats amiably, and finally says: "Would you like to see the Casbah?" This is Ahmed, the businessman and already the fringe of the notorious Arab quarter is in sight.

A night trip to the Casbah is intriguing, but still fresh is the warning of the Spanish bartender in the posh downtown hotel.

"Never trust an Arab," he

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

To Swim Or Not Quite A Problem

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is going to take swimming lessons at an indoor pool and her period will probably come on the last couple of days of the session.

Would it be advisable to continue with the lessons?—MRS. J.T.B.

To swim or not to swim during the menstrual period—that is a question that deserves some answers.

Medically, there is no harm in it. Nor, for that matter, is there harm in any physical activity or sport in which a girl or woman ordinarily engages. In fact, the girl or woman who is reasonably active has a great deal less trouble with cramps and similar troubles than do those who don't ordinarily get much exercise. But that's somewhat beside the point.

Swimming can be continued, if you like, in the ocean or lake or river.

However, in a pool, it is somewhat different, not from a health standpoint but from one of cleanliness or esthetics.

Contamination of the water isn't a problem. Chlorination in the pool would take care of that. Any well-operated pool, whether at home or at a club or gymnasium is (or ought to be) chlorinated to prevent the passage from person to person of such itinerant bacteria as may frequently be in the nose or throat or on the skin.

So make your decision on the and ferociously. "If you want a tour, get a licensed guide at a set fee and you will be safe."

You decline Ahmed's offer and instead buy him a coffee. He relaxes in the grand manner, sips his sweet drink and takes easily about himself. He has a hunch you are going to take that tour.

Before he became a "businessman" he was a coffee maker in a Casbah cafe. His ambition is to become a drummer but he has no drums.

He was married when he was 19, his wife 18. "Sometimes I see her," he says philosophically. "and if I go buy her a drink she is much angrier—so. I buy her a drink."

SCHOOLING USELESS

At school "all I learned was the Koran—it was a waste of my time." He learned English himself and boasts that he reads it "almost as good as I talk."

Ahmed is one of a band of thousands of Arabs who roam Tangier, picking up tips, the occasional free drink or cigarette from tourists. He gets a kick-back from shop owners who make a sale to a tourist he brings in. On the side, Ahmed is a salesman, dealing usually in cheap watches and transistor radios that are bought in Gibraltar and somehow find their way into his hands.

You suggest a drink and remember too late that it is against the law for Arabs to have liquor. But Ahmed knows a place, of course.

First he must change out of his djellabah. Instantly he is on his feet leading the way down dim cobble-stoned streets so narrow you can touch the walls on either side. Through dark passages you go, under shadowy arches, past stalls smelling of coffee and cheese and livestock.

Your life flashes before your eyes but if you are nervous about peering at you are more nervous about turning back into the unfathomable maze that seems to be closing behind you.

Finally a big brown door. When you hesitate Ahmed strikes a match and leads the way up a spiral staircase.

His simple home, two rooms, is by contrast a revelation. Everything spotlessly clean, a blaze of color in furniture and draperies set against sparkling white stucco walls. He introduces his cat, also Ahmed, and an unnamed green bird in a cage by the window overlooking the mosque silhouetted against the night sky.

Ahmed slips off the djellabah revealing neat blue slacks and sport shirt.

At the cellar bar—a sort of bootlegger's establishment selling liquor illegally to Arabs—other customers eye you silently and suspiciously.

The unnamed proprietor serves a horrible mixture of gin and thick, warm orange syrup. He tabulates the bill on the wooden counter with chalk and draws an X through it when you pay.

TIME FOR PAY

Back at your hotel Ahmed stops 10 paces away, knowing that to enter would mean the bum's rush. You've had your tour, wanted or not, and now you must pay. How much?

You slip him five dirhams—about $1. He looks neither pleased nor disappointed, instead rather hurt that money should pass between old friends.

But he pockets it swiftly and, smiling, walks off whistling to himself.

LETTER TO EDITOR

ORCHIDS WITHDRAWN

Sir: Your editorial of Oct. 5 "Orchids to Post Office" gives food for thought.

It is a fact that parcels cannot be mailed to England without a customs declaration. These can be procured at a customs office, but are usually obtained over the counter at the post office. Such parcels almost invariably are weighed and mailed at the post office. The parcel has affixed either regular postage stamps, or if a machine is used a gummed strip is attached stating the amount of postage paid.

Before proceeding overseas a clerk in Kelowna caused the shortage, and that the post office authorities, instead of being benevolent as your editorial suggests, had quite a nerve to bill the sender for its own mistake.

Details of how the shortage originated would be proper, before the orchids are spread around.

OTTAWA REPORT

Settlement In North Urgently Required

By PATRICK HICKSON

"Canada should develop an immigration policy to attract northern settlement," Mr. H. H. Macdonald, Liberal MP for Fort William, told me on his return from an inspection tour in our northwest Arctic.

"There are tremendous opportunities in our far North," he said. "The immense resources there could support one million residents."

Bert Badgeli, parliamentary secretary to the minister of public works, made a two-week tour by air during September, visiting all the leading settlements in the Yukon and Northwest Territories. His purpose was to see for himself just what his department is now building in that area, and why.

His first tour took him from Edmonton to Whitehorse, then to the old Gold Rush capital of Dawson City. From there he went to the new community of Igloolik at the mouth of the great Mackenzie River, and it is an exciting new community.

Back to his department at a cost of $200,000 to replace Alaska, which was gradually sinking into the melting and permafrost. From there, he went to the Reindeer Station, where herds of reindeer imported from Siberia are being raised to replace our own depleted herds of reindeer and caribou.

Then to Tuktoyaktuk, then south again through Inuvik, Repulse and Fort Smith to Yellowknife, and thence home to Fort William.

This was Bert's first visit to our great northwest. The valley of the great Mackenzie River, running 1,300 miles before it empties itself into the Arctic Ocean, especially impressed him.

Along its banks can be found gold, silver, oil, fur and timber, he said. "That valley alone could support one million settlers in truly Canadian style of living."

WARM CLIMATE, GOOD FOOD I asked Mr. Badgeli about the climate. Could settlers put up with the frigid conditions and the loneliness? In reply, he showed me the many colored photographs taken with his camera during his tour. These depicted the modern two-story homes, suburban residents, the majestic sweep of the blue

Mackenzie—and in the foreground of many, there stood the parliamentary secretary wearing, as he pointed out to me, the same clothes as he wore in his office on Parliament Hill. His politician's black hat.

What about food? "North is the richest land in Canada," I saw the largest cabbage I have ever seen, growing in the experimental market garden at Igloolik," he replied. "Each was 16 or 18 inches in diameter. Such large cabbages are grown nowhere else. And they grow leucoc and beans. But no potatoes, owing to the permafrost. Potatoes must be shipped in, and cost $2 of them per pound. Most food has to be shipped in, and so it is a lot more costly than in Fort William. But they have an abundance of delicious fish, caught in the Arctic Ocean or in the many lakes and rivers there."

REINDEER BANQUET Perhaps the most unique experience during the trip was to eat dinner in an Eskimo home. This was not the cardboard tent which the Eskimo used to call home but a fine two-story clapboard house, erected upon wooden poles driven down into the permafrost, and built by the federal government. In that great well-lit modern north, the Eskimo had served a delicious meal of Arctic fish and wild rice.

The handful of white residents in the Northwest Territories are very happy. Neither they, nor the newly arrived settlers, would consider leaving "Up North" again to live, he told me.

But it is that huge expanse of empty country with its great potentialities which has fired his enthusiasm. Above the 60th parallel, which forms the northern boundary of the province, there are over 1,300,000 square miles, and only 30,000 people live there," he told me. "There are many Scandinavian families who would feel right at home there, there are many Japanese who would make excellent settlers. They have the skills and the know-how to make the most of our rich north land. If I were 20 years old, and looking for a job, I would go there at once, confident that I would make a good life there and never lack for work."

Not A Foot Wrong By UK's Wilson

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP) — Harold Wilson "hasn't put a foot wrong" since becoming Labour party leader, says Lord Attlee.

Wilson has "put hardly a foot wrong" since becoming leader, says The Daily Telegraph, a Conservative paper.

This similarity of views between Attlee, former labor prime minister, and the true-blue Tory newspaper becomes easily understandable when watching Wilson operate at the annual labor party conference.

The 46-year-old pipe-smoking politician — economist, mover and shaker of the domestic and foreign policy with impressive calm and sureness.

Observers say Wilson is reaping the benefits of an intra-party victory originally won by Hugh Gaitskell, former party leader who died last January just when his career was reaching its zenith.

It is clear that Wilson is cultivating with great care a public image of moderation for himself and his party, but whether the technique would have been possible in the conference climate Gaitskell had to face is debatable.

When Wilson was elected to succeed the 56-year-old Gaitskell, some observers had doubts. His reputation for fence-straddling on serious issues led them to criticize him as a political opportunist.

His performance in the last three days has done much to dispel these doubts. His keynote speech Tuesday brought a standing ovation. The Daily Mail, a Conservative paper, calls it the "most courageous and inspiring" speech of Wilson's life.

Wilson has taken steps to ally himself with the party's more radical members that he might develop an anti-European stand. This week he pictured Britain allied with a new, socialist-leaning Europe, somewhat in contrast with the Common Market as now constituted.

The change in temper could be seen in the party's welcome to Willy Brandt, socialist mayor of West Berlin. It was considerably warmer than it would have been three years ago.

Johnny Keane Top NL Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Keane, who guided St. Louis to a surprising second-place finish, was named today as National League Manager of the Year for 1963.

WALT ALSTON
... 13 votes

The 51-year-old Cardinals skipper was an overwhelming choice in the annual Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters. Of the 71 ballots cast, Keane received 53 votes.

Walter Alston, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers, was second with 13 votes. Bobby Bragan, whose Milwaukee Braves finished sixth, got the remaining three votes. Gene Mauch of Philadelphia Phils, who was Manager of the Year in 1962, failed to get a vote this year.

The balloting was based on the teams' performances during the regular National League season.

NOT RATED THREAT

Cards, who weren't rated as a pennant threat in the press-evaluation, stayed in contention for first place most of the year.

They began to fade in late August and were in third place, seven games behind Dodgers on Aug. 30. St. Louis then launched a stirring stretch drive, winning 19 of 26, including a 19-game victory streak. Cards passed the second-place Giants and moved to within one game of the league-leading Dodgers on Sept. 13.

In a vital three game series at home against Los Angeles, St. Louis ran out of gas. The fired up Dodgers swept the three-game set, captured the flag and kept right on going to sweep New York Yankees in the World Series.

Cardinals finished six games behind Los Angeles and five games ahead of third-place San Francisco. They wound up with 83 victories and 69 defeats.

SIXTH IN 1962

In 1962, St. Louis was a sixth-place finisher with an 84-78 record, 11½ games off the pace.

Despite the lack of a 20-game winning streak, Keane provided a steady pitching staff that was led by Ernie Brogno and Bob Gibson, both of whom won 18 games. The hitting was solid with Dick Groat, Bill White, Ken Boyer and Curt Flood providing most of the punch.

Stan Musial, in his last year, supplied some key hits down the stretch and young Tim McCarver proved a capable catcher in his sophomore season.

But it was Keane who made the team mesh in his second full season at the helm. The veteran minor league manager had been a Cardinal coach when he replaced Solly Hemus as pilot on July 6, 1961. St. Louis was in sixth place when Keane was appointed manager and the club ended the season fifth.

Keane, who never made the majors as a player, was an in-pennant threat in the Cards' farm system. He worked his way up as manager through the chain.

Vets Go To Management For Aid On New Bonus Rule

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran baseball players who believe they are being judged off the payroll by the new bonus rule have called on management to come to their aid.

Under the new rule, if a big league club wants to protect from the draft a youngster to whom it may have paid a bonus of $100,000 to sign, it must carry him on its 25-man roster. Sometimes he sits on the bench and sometimes he is sent to the minors and the big league club plays with only 24 men. In a few instances, one club has protected two bonus babies this way.

The veterans believe this rule can cut short their careers by one to three years since the men dropped to make way for the youngsters are always the older players. Loss of playing years cuts into the rich baseball pension payments for the veterans.

"We have requested some type of immediate consideration to modify the bonus rules and protect the deserving veterans," said Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, legal advisor of the baseball players.

Bob Friend of Pittsburgh Pirates, players' representative in the National League, and Bob Turley of Boston Red Sox, representative in the American League, together with Cannon presented their case to a meeting of baseball's executive council Friday.

Present were Joe Cronin, president of the American League; Warren Giles, president of the National League; John Fetter, president of Detroit Tigers; Bob Carpenter, owner of Philadelphia Phillies, and Dan Topping, co-owner of New York Yankees.

"No concrete proposal was made," said Cannon, "but we spelled out the problem."

Canada Hosting Plowing Match

CALEDON, Ont. (CP)—Canada plays host to the world plowing championships this week for the second time in the event's 11-year history.

Thirty-six competitors from 18 countries will vie for the world plowing crown at the Conn Smythe Farm, 25 miles northwest of Toronto.

Prime Minister Pearson will officially open the matches Tuesday. The 11th Canadian championship and 50th international (Ontario) match are also being staged in conjunction with the world competition.

Canada's hopes in the world competition rests with Toby Trimble of Portage la Prairie, Man., and Grant Wells of Stouffville, Ont. The event starts Thursday and the winner will be named Saturday.

Last year Hans O. Sylling of Norway won the crown in East Flevoland, The Netherlands.

Harvey In Rush To See New York

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Doug Harvey seems to be in a hurry to get back to New York Rangers.

Harvey, 38-year-old defenseman sent by New York to St. Paul Rangers of the new Central Professional League Tuesday, scored two goals for St. Paul in a 4-3 win over St. Louis Hawks Tuesday night.

The former Montreal Canadiens star, 10 times an all-star in the National Hockey League, missed the New York training camp. He was sent to St. Paul to get into condition.

Just About The Same Team For Bucs' Rivals This Year

VICTORIA (CP) — Portland Buckaroos will present much the same team in the coming Western Hockey League season as the last two years.

And if the last two years are any guide, it will be a winning combination.

The Bucks took the Southern Division title in both years and coach Hal Laycoe says about the coming season:

"Positively—we have a good team. We have 13 holdovers and three new ones—Pat Stapleton, Pat Hannigan and Wayne North."

The newcomers will replace retired veterans Doug Anderson and Bill Davidson. Stapleton was acquired from Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, with whom Portland has a limited agreement. Hannigan came from New York Rangers.

PLAYED FOR CALGARY North played for Calgary Stampeder, who dropped out of the WHL this year along with Edmonton Flyers and Spokane Comets.

Denver replaced Spokane and the league becomes a six-team circuit in place of last season's eight-team grouping.

Laycoe says "It's hard to tell how the rookies will make out" before the team completes training in Victoria Oct. 7. First game of the season is against Denver Oct. 10.

"If I had a week spot I wouldn't reveal it," he says. Laycoe thinks the 1963-64 season will see the WHL the "strongest ever, better than the American Hockey League and only just below NHL."

LOSS HELPS LEAGUE Loss of Edmonton and Calgary will have a favorable effect on the league—"people just weren't going to see them."

Holdovers include veteran Gordie Fashoway, making an all-out effort to prove that at 37 he can still play good hockey. He is third only to Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard in the total number of goals scored in professional ranks. Richard had 544 at retirement. Howe has 540 and Fashoway 521.

Other holdovers are goalie Don Head, defencemen Dallas Smith, Mike Donaldson and Jack Blonda, centres Art Jones, Gerry Goyer and Ken Laufman and wingers Fashoway, Tom McCarthy, Arlo Goodwin, Bill Saunders, Tom McVie, Orval Tessier and Arnie Schmutz. The Buckaroos had their first test Sept. 28 when Toronto Maple Leafs, the Stanley Cup champions, edged them 2-1 in an exhibition game here.

Activities Scheduled For Kelowna Golfers

Members of the Kelowna Golf and Country Club are invited to attend the Ladies' Calcutta Dance on Saturday, October 19.

The dance will be held at the clubhouse from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets may be purchased at the clubhouse.

Tonight there will be a stag night and par points tournament for members and guests at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club.

Arnold Palmer May See Action

ATLANTA (AP) — Captain Arnold Palmer isn't going to be timid about using Arnold Palmer in the Ryder Cup golf matches against Britain starting Friday.

"I intend to play the men who I think can win for us," the Yank leader from Latrobe, Pa. said Wednesday. "If I feel I am playing well, I won't let my modesty stand in the way. I'll pick myself. If I'm off, to the sidelines I go."

As playing captain and star of the United States team, Palmer is in a bit of uncomfortable position and admits that the job has its drawbacks.

"There is one advantage," he said. "A non-playing captain can't be as familiar with the guys as a man who has been batting it around with them all year. On the other hand, the added responsibility conceivably could affect the golf of the playing captain."

FALLON CAPTAIN

The British are led by a non-playing captain, John Fallon, a Scottish Ryder Cup veteran living in England.

Palmer is optimistic over the Americans' prospects of retaining the stylish gold pitcher which they have won 11 of 14 times and never lost on a U.S. course.

"If they're all right, he said of his team, "there are not 10 players in the world who can beat them."

In the first full-scale practice Tuesday, Palmer shot a 69, one-under-par for the 6,898-yard, par-70 East Lake course. Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion, also had a 69, as did Dow Finsterwald. The other players were said to be around par.

The British also found the course to their liking in warm, beautiful weather. Neil Coles and Ireland's Christy O'Connor both shot 69. Geoffrey Hunt and Brian Huggett had 70s. The others were close to par.

GIVES RUNDOWN

Palmer gave a man-by-man rundown of the American team and even included himself in the analysis.

"My iron shots are about as good as they've been in a long time and I'm putting well," said the man who has collected $127,555 in official winnings.

On the other team members

he gave this thumbnail description:

Julius Boros — "he's playing so well it scares me."

Dow Finsterwald — "better than he has in four or five years."

Gene Littler — "not at his best but getting to be more sound."

Bill Casper Jr. — "fresh after his long layoff with a bad hand, playing well."

Billy Maxwell — "jerked the ball a bit, but improving."

Johnny Pott — "playing really well."

Bob Goalby — "not playing well, having putting troubles."

Tony Lema — "exceptionally well."

Dave Ragan — "you don't know what he'll do—can go either way, real good or real bad."

Arnold Palmer — "that's where I came in."

Habs, Bruins Play to Draw

The National Hockey League is into a spanking new season and Montreal Canadiens appear to have made a find in a tall, spunky kid from Vancouver.

Crew-cut chisel-featured John Bowie Ferguson came to Montreal from Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League after a 30-goal season.

Coach Toe Blake plunked Ferguson down on a line with old hands Jean Beliveau and Boom Boom Geoffrion and took a let's-see-what-you-can-do attitude.

Tuesday night, before 19,000 fans in Boston, Canadiens and the Bruins inaugurated the NHL 1963-64 schedule and Ferguson responded with two goals and an assist in a 4-4 saw-off.

Murray Oliver of the Bruins matched Ferguson's performance, potting his second goal with less than two minutes to play to salvage the tie.

Canadiens opened last season in Boston the second day of the schedule and absorbed a 5-4 pasting. Bruins went the next 18 games without a win and ultimately wound up last.

BLOW LEADS

Tuesday night, Bruins twice blew two-goal leads.

Tom Williams and Dean Prentice, acquired from New York Rangers, were Boston's other goal-getters.

Geoffrion and young defenceman Terry Harper rounded out the Montreal attack.

Canadiens fired 42 shots at Eddie Johnston, the Boston goaltender, and Bruins unleashed 34 at Lorne "Gump" Worsley, who came to Montreal in a seven-player swap with New York last June.

Oliver's tie-maker was a 35-footer—set up by a drop pass from Williams—at 18:05 of the final period. His first goal made the score 2-0 for Boston at 8:14 of the opening period after Williams opened the scoring at 5:13 while Montreal's J. C. Tremblay was serving a minor penalty.

Ferguson counted his first at 9:56 from a goalmouth scramble with Beliveau assisting.

Then in the second period Prentice pushed the Bruins in front 3-1 at 14:57.

PENALTIES MURKY

Habs came back quickly, beating Johnston a with two power-play goals 50 seconds apart. Ferguson fired goal No. 2 at 16:25 while Teddy Green was off and with Dave Balon set up Geoffrion at 17:15, squaring the count at 3-3 while Guy Gendron was serving a penalty.

Harper sent Montreal ahead at 18:16 of the third period and then came the late goal by Oliver.

Rangers meet the Black Hawks in Chicago tonight. Hawks will have Stan Mikita in the lineup, a prospect that seemed uncertain for a time. The scrappy centre was a contract holdout and he missed the All-Star game because of it.

He came to terms with the front office Tuesday. They were understood but it was understood he obtained a considerable raise above the $15,000 he was reported to have earned last year when he led Hawks in scoring with 31 goals and 43 assists.

New York will be minus defence veteran Doug Harvey. Business pressure kept him at home in Montreal and he signed his contract only Tuesday after missing most of the club's pre-season training.

There are all kinds of ways to get off a horse. Not exactly recommended in this procedure used by this cowboy at the opening of the 32nd annual Texas Rodeo at Huntington. This Has To Be A Grand Season—Campbell Still No Expansion For Six Team League

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence said, "That's pretty much all that's left of the season. You just don't go higher than that. And when you're taking figures, it's a matter of how the race goes and many other factors."

The "grand season" was 1960-61 when attendance dropped slightly. The reason? "A lack of competition," Campbell said.

But there was little reason for concern, he said. A general increase in ticket prices more than offset the dip and gross receipts were higher by $250,000.

Campbell, 54, traced the upswing at the gate in part to the NHL's intra-league draft, a policy introduced in the early 1960s to help the weaker clubs. Under the system each team is allowed to place a specified number of players on a protected list. The others may be drafted by the other clubs with first shot at the choice material determined by the inverse order of finish the previous season.

The going price is $20,000 a man now.

NARROWS COMPETITION — This has ensured reasonably tight competition," and Campbell said, "There is no way to bury a player. In effect, it reduces the opportunities of the top teams to improve themselves in relation to the lower clubs."

He said the draft was not immediately effective. At the outset a club could protect 25 players, a figure Campbell described as "unrealistically high." But this has been scaled down to 18 plus two goaltenders and it has worked out ideally.

Turning to expansion, the NHL president said the board of governors "realizes the league needs a broader geographic base."

"But we don't want to destroy the structure by trying to make it bigger simply for the sake of size. We want good solid partners who can do what we are doing now."

To expand, he said, the NHL would have to go to eight teams and there are just not too many cities now equipped to produce the kind of hockey we have.

He said the league is striving, instead, to "improve conditions that produce an ultimate expansion on a solid level."

Swedes Go Home Reject Contracts

TORONTO (CP) — Two Swedish amateur hockey players who trained with the National Hockey League champion Toronto Maple Leafs this fall have decided to go back home to their engineering jobs.

Both goaltender Kjell Svensson and leftwinger Carl Oberg rejected minor league contracts.

Turning to expansion, the NHL president said the board of governors "realizes the league needs a broader geographic base."

"But we don't want to destroy the structure by trying to make it bigger simply for the sake of size. We want good solid partners who can do what we are doing now."

To expand, he said, the NHL would have to go to eight teams and there are just not too many cities now equipped to produce the kind of hockey we have.

He said the league is striving, instead, to "improve conditions that produce an ultimate expansion on a solid level."

Boston's Murray Oliver and Montreal rookie John Ferguson, both two-goal scorers when the Bruins and the Canadiens played to a 4-4 tie at Boston in the season-opening game.

Man, Wife Happy Now

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants first baseman Orlando Cepeda and his wife "are as happy as the day they were married" after a Tuesday in which he filed for divorce then told his lawyer to forget the action when newspapers headlined the story.

The rocky 24 hours in Cepeda's marital bliss began Monday night when he signed a divorce complaint against Anna Cepeda, his wife of nearly three years.

Lawyer Marvin Lewis filed the complaint Tuesday morning, the story broke and Cepeda denied any desire for divorce.

Lewis got together with Orlando and later said the 34-year-old Giant admitted signing the complaint.

But, said Lewis, Orlando "thought it was not a public thing. He was shocked to learn the newspapers would find out about it. He further says he now is reconciled and they are as happy as the day they were married."

Don Budford MVP In 1963

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Budford, the diminutive third baseman with Indianapolis Indians, was an overwhelming choice as the International League Most Valuable Player for 1963.

Budford collected 23 of the 27 votes cast. Richie Allen, Arkansas outfielder, received two votes while Jerry Buchek, Atlanta shortstop, and Lou Jackson, Toronto outfielder, had one each.

Budford, the league batting champion with a .336 average earlier, was named Rookie-of-the-Year.

TRIPLTS NAMED AFTER DODGERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Eddie Turner of Compton gave birth to triplets Sunday, a few hours before the final game of the World Series.

Tuesday, she and her husband named them after three Dodger pitchers. One is Donald Scott, for Don Drysdale; one is Sandy, for Sandy Koufax, and the third is Ronald Peter, for Ron Perrano.

In the case of Koufax, the Turners decided not to borrow the proper first name. You can't very well call a girl Sanford.

Book Has Claimed Credit For LA's Perfect Sweep

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers' stunning four-game World Series sweep over New York Yankees was the result of a perfect book — actually 19 pages of loose leaf paper — compiled by three top scouts.

Carrying out the instructions and recommendations in the secret report, Dodger pitchers Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Don Drysdale were able to limit the American League's toughest hitting team to four runs and 22 hits, only five for extra bases.

The weapon was provided by the information put together by director of scouts Al Campanis and two of his aides, Lefty Phillips and Ted McGrew.

The reports contained information on the strengths and weaknesses of every Yankee in the hitting, fielding and pitching departments. In addition to routine information, the Dodger pitchers learned which batters would lay off certain pitches, which they preferred, which they were most likely to hit, and in what direction the ball would probably travel when hit.

MOST THOROUGH — "I have never seen a more thorough scouting report," said Barry Bavasi, Dodger general manager.

The players were told which Yankees were fastball hitters and when they were most likely to try and steal or attempt to hit-and-run. On the other hand, the Dodgers also learned when and against whom they could try to take the extra base, and which pitchers could be waited out and which could not.

Here's how some of the knowledge was used:

1. Drysdale picked off Roy Kuba at first base in the third inning of the third game, won by Dodgers 1-0. The scouts had detected a give-away move by Kuba, which indicated the hit-and-run play was on.

2. Jim Gilliam did not stop at second when Clete Boyer's throw got by first baseman Joe Pepitone, racing to third and eventually scoring the winning run in the seventh inning of the fourth game. The scouts had known that Pepitone had a weak arm.

3. Shortstop Maury Wills was able to grab John Blanchard's grounder, to the right of second base, in the fifth inning of the third game. The scouts had noted that when they saw Blanchard he never hit to the left of second base.

4. Clete Boyer of Yankees was able to get only one hit in 13 at-bats, while striking out six times. The scouts had recommended a steady diet of curves.

5. Elston Howard, a right-handed batter, hit only one ball to left field in the four games.

The scouts planned the pitches. "The pitchers did a magnificent job," said Campanis. "They mixed speeds beautifully. They threw to designated spots, rarely to a hitter's strength. Our pitchers kept the Yankees off balance with off speed pitches, and came in with the fast ball when they least expected it."

Campanis, who revealed the nature of the scouting report only in general terms, declined to make public the more personal and secret disclosures in the reports.

CANADIAN BRIEFS

TO GET MONUMENT — PORT HOOD, N.S. (CP) — Erection of a cairn in this Cape Breton town to the memory of the late Sidney Smith, former external affairs minister, has been approved by the Historic Sites Advisory Council. Mr. Smith, born in Port Hood, died in Ottawa in 1952.

SAFE WORKERS — ASBESTOS, Que. (CP) — The Canadian Johns-Manville plant here has won a Canadian Industrial Safety Association award for completing four years without a lost-time accident. The association described the feat as "among the top records in Canada." The plant employs 400 workers.

ACADIAN MUSEUM — METEGHAN, N.S. (CP) — La Vieille Maison (The Old House) stands here as testimony to the exile of the Acadians in 1755. Now a public museum, the small dwelling dates from 1636 and contains relics of life in the village more than 300 years ago.

ORANGUTANS DYING — VANCOUVER (CP) — The orangutan is in danger of extinction, says the Stanley Park Zoo. The zoo curator said he had refused six recent offers to buy "black market" orangutans. "Responsible zoos all over the world should refuse to buy them," he said.

ONCE WAS POOR — Key West, Florida's popular winter resort, had some 12,000 residents on relief in the depression of the early 1930s.

Clay Says No, Chuvalo Dirty

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Clay has changed his mind again—he won't fight Toronto heavyweight George Chuvalo.

Clay said Tuesday he will not fight anyone until he faces world champion Sonny Liston for the title "in four or five months."

Clay said previously he would meet the winner of the Chuvalo-Mike DeJohn bout, which Chuvalo won.

But, Clay said, "Chuvalo fights like a woman. He uses his head to butt, fights in close and he's dirty. I could get a cut eye or something like that."

"My people and the Liston people are getting together now and we may sign for a fight within the next week or two. The fight may be held in four or five months."

However, Clay's comments were hardly uttered before promoter Bill King protested and state boxing commissioner Bob Evans said he would hold a hearing on the whole matter Friday.

TRIBUTE BETTER THAN A MEDAL

Tributes worth more than a medal were the looks given this English hero after he was awarded the U.S. Air Force Exceptional Service Medal at Mendenhall, Suffolk, England. Peter Rush, 22, was awarded the medal for his heroism in rescuing Mrs. Barbara Slaver, wife of an American airman, who was shot down at Mendenhall, after her home was struck by a U.S. fighter. He went into the blazing wreck of the house and carried Mrs. Slaver and her son Billy out to safety. They are both seen here thanking to him after he was presented with the medal. (AP Wire Photo)

Congress' Thumbs Down Causes Ottawa Blushes

OTTAWA (CP)—Rejection by the United States Congress of a U.S. Army replacement for the Lockheed C-130E—was projected for 45 more Canadian C-130E—at a time when the Canadian government, author Lockheed Hercules transports, is here say.

The HCAF bought four Hercules planes some three years ago and has long wanted more, Drury announced June 7 after a meeting with U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara that Canadian troops serving with the two countries "reaffirmed United Nations peacekeeping positively" support of the de-mission.

One informant said Lockheed's chances of selling more planes to the Canadian government have decreased considerably since the U.S. Congress should not be allowed to interfere. The U.S. Army had already interceded in exchange for U.S. killer whales and has visited the continuation and purchased some 125 Caribou transport planes from de Havilland CL-44 cargo plane.

In 1960, the Canadian and U.S. defence departments were considering a swap whereby Canada would buy the Voodoo jet in company with a dozen other interceptor in exchange for U.S. killer whales and has visited the continuation and purchased some 125 Caribou transport planes from de Havilland CL-44 cargo plane.

U.S. Traders Want "In" On Grain Deal

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada's $500,000,000 wheat and flour sale to Russia has brought home to American businessmen the feeling that they should get on the band wagon too. Edwin P. Neilan, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, said today.

He told a press conference that U.S. businessmen generally have felt for some time that trading with the Communist bloc in non-strategic goods would be good for their community, but had hesitated to express their views.

"You could say we were behind the bars of a political philosophy that said we shouldn't trade with the Soviet bloc," Mr. Neilan, here to address the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Canada's deal with Russia "analyzed a lot of feeling in the U.S. that until now hadn't expressed itself."

The American chamber would not take any official stand immediately on the question of trading with Communist countries but there might be some lead in that direction soon from midwestern and Pacific states.

"Business feels that good, two-way trade is the best basis there is for peaceful co-existence," Mr. Neilan said. "Most Americans feel that Canada has exhibited a more intelligent, more sophisticated approach to world trade than we have."

Road Safety Parents' Job

VANCOUVER (CP)—Parents—not school safety patrols—bear most of the responsibility for traffic accidents involving children, say school and safety officials here.

They were unanimously critical of an article in the Canadian Medical Association Journal that safety patrols build a false sense of security in children and cause them to be careless outside the patrol's protection.

"Safety education begins at home," said Jim Plasket, director of the Vancouver Safety Council.

"What attitudes the children take toward traffic come pretty much from what their parents teach them."

Mrs. Eva New, chairman of the Caribou public school board, said the Caribou safety patrol work has been "wonderful."

"I can't see how they can be blamed for what happens to children outside their supervision."

This was not the first time the U.S. Congress had thrown a spanner into the selling plans of Canadian aircraft manufacturers.

WHILE OF A TIME VICTORIA (CP)—Alice, a pure white whale with a black dorsal fin, has been spotted in the area again. She was seen today. Sizes 8 to 14.

Standard Time Returns To Province October 27

Deputy provincial secretary L. J. Wallace of British Columbia announced today that British Columbia will return to standard time Oct. 27. Most other provinces and American states will move their clocks back an hour the same day. Daylight saving time has been in effect since April 28.

Robert Macaulay, 42, retired today as Ontario's energy and resources minister for health reasons. Mr. Macaulay collapsed in the House last March when he suffered what doctors described as a mild heart attack brought on by fatigue from overwork.

Dr. Richard Glover, now professor of history at the University of Manitoba, is named director of the human history branch of the National Museum of Canada.

N. J. McKinnon, head of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, conferred Tuesday with First Deputy Premier Alvaro Kozegian. A Canadian embassy official said it is possible that Kozegian is connected with payment for Soviet wheat purchases were discussed.

JOHN SHARKEY

John Sharkey of the National Broadcasting Co., seen right, bandaged as he leaves hospital, has told U.S. officials in Saigon, including Ambassador Cabot Lodge, of how he was attacked and beaten by South Viet Nam police after witnessing the burning of a Buddhist monk. The U.S. embassy protested the incident in which several other newspapermen were attacked by plainclothesmen.

President Remulo Betancourt of Venezuela has blamed Cuban Premier Fidel Castro for the increase in anti-government violence in Venezuela that has cost at least 20 lives in the last week.

Minister McLraith said today he expects a decision will be made by the end of the year on the fate of TCA's maintenance and overhaul shops after 1966.

Mr. McLraith said in the Commons that a consultant's report recommends that it would be more economical for Trans-Canada Air Lines to close the Winnipeg maintenance facilities.

Commander James Plomer, retired deputy commander of the navy who made a sharp attack on the navy in a Sept. 7 Maclean's Magazine article, will testify Thursday before the Commons defence committee.

Police chief J. F. Gregory of Victoria said today a juvenile being held on another charge may soon face a charge in connection with the Aug. 30 slaying of George Dawkins. But he refused to confirm a report that the boy, 15, will be charged within a week with non-capital murder.

Negro James H. Meredith is trying to re-enter the University of Mississippi, where his entrance last year touched off riots, death and a major federal showdown in that state. He received last August a bachelor of arts degree in political science to become the first Negro graduate in the university's 115-year history. He is now says he has applied to re-turn to law school. Asked why he wants to return to the hostile atmosphere where federal marshals and troops had to guard his safety night and day for almost a year, Meredith said: "Because I'm a citizen."

JAMES MEREDITH

The appointment of J. L. E. Coulthard and Arthur J. E. Smith as the two full-time directors of the Economic Council of Canada was announced today by Prime Minister Pearson.

How To Measure Windows For Drapes

Accuracy is essential. Use yardstick or steel rule and list ALL measurements in inches. Measure height and width of AREA TO BE COVERED, not the window itself.
